

Dear Colleagues,

The Office of Teaching and Learning has seven vacancies on its advisory board. If you're interested in helping guide the future of this office and enjoy meeting and learning from colleagues from all colleges and departments in the university, please consider serving. The board serves a crucial role in the OTL by keeping the director and faculty fellows informed about faculty needs and interests and generating ideas for programming, speakers and events.

Term of service: three years, beginning in spring of 2012.

Time commitment and responsibilities: one meeting with teaching fellows, advisory board members and director per month; assistance with administration of grants and generating ideas for programs; participation in Teaching and Learning programming whenever possible.

Application deadline: Friday, February 17

If you are interested, please email me a statement describing your involvement in faculty development at Bridgewater and why you want to serve on this board (in about 350 words).

Faculty from all colleges and departments and at all career stages are warmly encouraged to apply.

I look forward to hearing from you!

Yours,
Ann
