1. What are some things you can do to help some one being bullied? Have you ever helped someone before?

If someone is being bullied, you can step in to help the person being bullied. You can say: "Stop! That's not kind!" This would be an example of being assertive. Also, everyone in school should be taught not to bully and to stand up for the kids in school who are being bullied. Then the bully will see that he or she is the one who is alone, and that the person who gets picked on has friends. Finally, because bullies pick on people who are usually smaller or different we can teach kids that people are supposed to be different and that this is a good thing.

One time I was at a public playground and a girl was picking on my friend. I was watching as the girl was threatening my friend so my friend would give the girl her only but favorite snack. I stepped over and said, "Stop! Leave my friend alone!". The girl was kind of upset and scared so she left my friend alone. There should be no such thing as bullying in the entire world.
